Somewhere in France.

Dear folks:

I will again write you a few lines. I am well and hope these few lines will find all O. K. We are now stationed in a very nice little French town. We are having a very nice time now. Don't have to work so hard. I think we will be at home before many months. Hope we will. Say, I haven't heard a gun fire for so long, it don't seem natural, but it just suits me if we never hear any more. I don't think it will be long until we can write anything we want to. I wish I could now I. Probably you have heard all ready as much about peace as I have. I am sure it won't be long till I can tell you the whole story for everything is as quiet over here as it is in New York, or any other city in the States, except when the doughboys start rejoicing. I can say that they have something to rejoice over. I am now staying in a nice French house. I am sitting by a good fire. That is something us boys over here very seldom ever have is a fire and a warm place to sleep. I think we will be in a better place soon. I was on guard night before last and someone took my place on the truck to-day. I am all washed up and got on new clothes from the hide out, also got a good pair of overshoes. Feet never get cold. I will close, answer soon. From your son,

Pvt. Gresham Ford.

Dear Father:—

I will write you a few lines to let you know how I am. This leaves me well, hope this will find all O. K. I am still on the go, but you know we are the happiest boys in the world. This is the first time I have had the chance to write anything I wanted to. We are now in a nice town, in a schoolhouse. Everything is nice. We have steam heat and the town is lighted. I have been in Germany. Probably will get a chance to go to Luxemburg soon. You have heard lots about that town. It isn't either in France or Germany. It is a very large place, and our soldiers are also in the big town of Metz. Everything looks good around here. Don't look like that there ever was a war now. We are all around the German people every day and buy stuff from their stores, there are some very wealthy people here. They sure treat us well. I have so much to write about I don't know what to say first, and the best of it all is good health and safe guidance which I am very thankful for. I have gone all through this old war and hav'n't got a scratch or had to put my gas mask on, and that is more than some of them can say. It isn't because I have not been on the lines, it is just luck. I see the effects of the many prayers that have been offered for us boys over here which has been many. Daddy, it is some satisfaction to start out on a long trip with lights, and don't have to be dodging shells and bullets. On the 11th day of November, when we got the news that the armistice had been signed the Germans came over and shook hands with our boys and said it is all over. We are having a very nice time now, think we will be on our way across the deep blue sea in a short time. That is the only talk now. When I get home I can tell you the whole story. That will be the happiest time of my life. I understand that we will have a big parade in N. Y., before they let us go and that will be great. We got orders to be ready for a rifle inspection Dec. 1, so I have mine all cleaned up and ready. Well Daddy, I can't think of any more to write now, so I will have to close, hoping you all the best of luck till my return, so God bless you all for I believe our prayers have been answered. So good-bye. From your loving son,
Pvt. Gresham Ford.

Health About Gone

Many thousands of women suffering from womanly trouble, have been benefited by the use of Cardui, the woman's tonic, according to letters we receive, similar to this one from Mrs. Z. V. Spell, of Hayne, N. C. "I could not stand on my feet, and just suffered terribly," she says. "As my suffering was so great, and he had tried other remedies, Dr. — had us get Cardui. . . I began improving, and it cured me. I know, and my doctor knows, what Cardui did for me, for my nerves and health were about gone."

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

She writes further: "I am in splendid health. . . can do my work. I feel I owe it to Cardui, for I was in dreadful condition." If you are nervous, run-down and weak, or suffer from headache, backache, etc., every month, try Cardui. Thousands of women praise this medicine for the good it has done them, and many physicians who have used Cardui successfully with their women patients, for years, endorse this medicine. Think what it means to be in splendid health, like Mrs. Spell. Give Cardui a trial.

What are we going to do with the Kaiser, and those who with him were responsible for the war? is the question of all the Americans in France, and more or less all of the Allied countries of the world. As far as we can see no definite official action has been taken yet regarding them or at least none has come to light through the press. If there is any doubt in the minds of those who at the present moment are handling the reins of our future destinies as to what should be done with these wholesale murderers of humanity, has it ever occurred to anyone that perhaps the Soldier of the trenches who have suffered for quite a few months of real hardship, was consulted. They could settle that question very quickly and I feel sure it would suit every soldier of the A. E. F. although a few persons who at home and far removed from the scenes of war may have vivid conception of the hell. That war is, to the vast majority who have not actually suffered the war will soon be merely a disagreeable memory, and as weeks roll by there will probably be a tendency to be lenient with those who are responsible for the terrible blood shed.

But the soldier who has gone through hell, suffered numberless privations, seen his pals and comrades in arms, blown to atoms, been splashed with their blood. The idea of the perpetrators of countless outrage walking around at large, possibly intriguing more devilish plots, and the world apparently indifferent is intolerable.

We soldiers of the U. S. A. and Allies came to France to get the Kaiser, and we want him, we hold him and his partners in crime responsible, when our comrades fall. Every soldier pledges his self that he will fight on and on and will see that those who are responsible will get the punishment.

Now don't cheat the soldier just let them have the Kaiser and it will soon be finished. The victory is not decisive without him being justly punished, and if it had been necessary to fight six or twelve months longer to see that end accomplished every soldier under arms would have been willing to carry on.

In this hour of triumph when our higher impulses have a merciful trend toward the enemy, let us not forget our dead—we owe them a trust, they would have been sacrificed in vain, their very souls would rise from the myriads of graves accusingly, were we to leave at large the Kaiser and his tools to plot against the peace and happiness of the future generation.

We are all in favor of turning him over to the French soldiers or the U. S. or any allied soldier. We are going into Germany soon I think. This is the way I feel, and just ask any soldier what he thinks, I will close by asking the soldier who was on the Burdum front, Just a soldier.

Somewhere in France.

Dear Father:—

I will write you a few lines this morning, as I noticed in the Stars and Stripes newspaper last night that every boy over here should write his Dad a Xmas letter. I can tell you more than I could the last time I wrote home. Well, it seems that I have been most all over France. May be it is because we have hiked most everywhere we go and carry our household and kitchen furniture on our backs. I have been in the Vosges mts., when it seemed as I was pretty close to heaven, as they were the largest Mts., I ever saw. On July 14, it was real clear, we could see the Alps Mts., in Switzerland. It snowed up there on June 21. When we first came across we landed in Liverpool, England, on the train from there to Winchester. Stayed 2 days. On the train from there to Southampton, on the boat from there to LeHavre, France. We got on the train there. We had side doors pullmans. They were marked 8 horses or 40 hammies. So you see we were pretty well packed in. We went upon the English sector near Allyville and the future looked rather dark as they were driving the English back and also was getting close to Paris. We were in the reserve of the English. We sat around our billet with packs rolled up ready to leave in 15 minutes for three or four days and nights. Then hiked 36 miles and on the train again for 3 days and nights got off and hiked sixteen kilometers and stopped at a village called Deaumont for a week, and on the trucks again to Vissering and there is where we began to climb the Mts. We were the first Co., in the trenches. We relieved the French. I never saw a darker night than it was, and the Huns were shooting up flare lights all night, the first ones we had ever seen. They took us out and showed us the post and just pointed all around and said Boche. I think it was on June 21 or 22. We took this over. I told you what I did for one on June 26, and on July 6 our Co., put on one of the dog-gonest raids that was ever pulled off in this sector. We were relieved and were shock troops attached to the French 32 Division. We drilled about a week at a town called Mouch. On July 14, we were in a big parade with 3 companies of French. That is a national holiday in France. Then we moved to town called Salanve, and stayed there 26 days. Left there on Aug. 12. Was in a different sector. Was in the front lines 26 days and left there, hiked about 15 miles, got on trucks for 40 kilometers, then train for 50 or 60 miles. Got off at Lunville, a very nice little town. We hiked from there 26 kilometers and stayed 2 days, and hiked and hiked finally coming to Nancy. You have heard of that town. It sure a fine town. I stayed a little and almost got lost as you can't read the street numbers. I got on a street car and the conductor said something. I just shook my head. I gave her half a Franc that is about the same as a 10 cent piece in U. S. She gave me eight cents back. We moved from there and was in the big drive at St. Mihiel, and was moved 125 kilometers on trucks not very far from Verdun and on Sept. 26, started a drive on the Verdun front. We were the first wave over. I helped to take this town Cheppy and one called Verrey. We took about 300 prisoners at Cheppy. I sent you some German pictures I took off of some of them. Did you get them or not? The Huns did not try to fight only with machine guns and artillery and a fellow can't do much with a rifle at those. We had tanks to break up the machine gun nest. The tank corps had been in all the drives the Americans had been in but had never seen as hard fighting as it was on the Argonne front. I was gassed at the foot of the hill of the Argonne front, two Lieutenants, one sergeant and myself. I was sent to the field hospital. I had a tag around my neck for the Base, but I told the Dr., I was all right so I went back to my Co. My Lieutenant was all swollen and blistered all over. I was lucky. The artillery hit all around me. I would see boys fall on the right and left and the shrapnels would just ring by me in all directions. I told Capt. Myers that they did not seem to have my number. He says that is the way to feel at several different times when the machine guns would begin to fire at me I would just drop down on the ground and hear the bullets pass only a few inches over me. I would often wonder if I would ever see Mannville again. We were back only a few days when we were sent to where the French were, on a quiet sector. I was sent to the scouts. We would go out every night on patrols. One night on Oct. 21, we crowded out quite a distance. We came to a lot of barb wire. We got through one by one until we came to the edge of some woods. We knew the Huns lines were there close. We

MUST INCREASE FOOD EXPORTS

America Called on by End of War to Supply Added Millions.

ECONOMY STILL NEEDED.

Over Three Times Pre-War Shipments Required—Situation in Wheat and Fats Proves Government's Policy Sound.

With the guns in Europe silenced, we have now to consider a new world food situation. But there can be no hope that the volume of our exports can be lightened to the slightest degree with the cessation of hostilities. Millions of people liberated from the Prussian yoke are now depending upon us for the food which will keep them from starvation.

With food the United States made it possible for the forces of democracy to hold out to victory. To insure democracy in the world, we must continue to live simply in order that we may supply these liberated nations of Europe with food. Hunger among a people inevitably breeds anarchy. American food must complete the work of making the world safe for democracy.

Last year we sent 11,820,000 tons of food to Europe. For the present year, with only the European Allies to feed, we had originally pledged ourselves to a program that would have increased our exports to 17,500,000 tons. Now, to feed the liberated nations, we will have to export a total of not less than 20,000,000 tons—practically the limit of loading capacity at our ports. Reviewing the world food situation, we find that some foods will be obtainable in quantities sufficient to meet all world needs under a regime of economical consumption. On the other hand, there will be marked world shortages in some important commodities.

Return to Normal Bread Loaf.

With the enlarged wheat crops which American farmers have grown, and the supplies of Australia, the Argentine and other markets now accessible to shipping, there are bread grains enough to enable the nations to return to their normal wheat loaf, provided we continue to mill flour at a high percentage of extraction and maintain economy in eating and the avoidance of waste.

In fats there will be a heavy shortage—about 3,000,000,000 pounds—in pork products, dairy products and vegetable oils. While there will be a shortage of about three million tons in rich protein feeds for dairy animals, there will be sufficient supplies of other feedstuffs to allow economical consumption.

In the matter of beef, the world's supplies are limited to the capacity of the available refrigerating ships. The supplies of beef in Australia, the Argentine and the United States are sufficient to load these ships. There will be a shortage in the importing countries, but we cannot hope to expand exports materially for the next months in view of the bottle neck in transportation.

We will have a sufficient supply of sugar to allow normal consumption in this country if the other nations retain their present short rations or increase them only slightly. For the countries of Europe, however, to increase their present rations to a material extent will necessitate our sharing a part of our own supplies with them.

Twenty Million Tons of Food.

Of the world total, North America will furnish more than 60 per cent. The United States, including the West Indies, will be called upon to furnish 20,000,000 tons of food of all kinds as compared with our pre-war exports of about 6,000,000 tons.

While we will be able to change our program in many respects, even a casual survey of the world supplies in comparison to world demands shows conclusively that Europe will know famine unless the American people bring their home consumption down to the barest minimum that will maintain health and strength.

There are conditions of famine in Europe that will be beyond our power to remedy. There are 40,000,000 people in North Russia whom there is small chance of reaching with food this winter. Their transportation is demoralized in complete anarchy, and shortly many of their ports will be frozen, even if internal transport could be realized.

To Preserve Civilization.

At this moment Germany has not alone sucked the food and animals from all those masses of people she has dominated and left starving, but she has left behind her a total wreckage of social institutions, and this mass of people is now confronted with absolute anarchy.

If we value our own safety and the social organization of the world, if we value the preservation of civilization itself, we cannot permit growth of this cancer in the world's vitals.

Famine is the mother of anarchy. From the inability of governments to secure food for their people grows revolution and chaos. From an ability to supply their people grows stability of government and the defeat of anarchy. Did we put it on no higher plane than our interests in the protection of our institutions, we must begin ourselves in solution of this problem.

KEPT PLEDGE TO SEND BREAD

American Nation Maintained Allied Loaf Through Self-Denial at Home Table.

AVERTED EUROPEAN DESPAIR.

With Military Demands Upon Ocean Shipping Relieved, World is Able to Return to Normal White Wheat Bread.

Since the advent of the latest wheat crop the only limitation upon American exports to Europe has been the shortage of shipping. Between July 1 and October 10 we shipped 65,480,606 bushels. If this rate should continue until the end of the fiscal year we will have furnished the Allies with more than 237,500,000 bushels of wheat and flour in terms of wheat.

The result of increased production and conservation efforts in the United States has been that with the cessation of hostilities we are able to return to a normal wheat diet. Supplies that have accumulated in Australia, Argentine and other hitherto inaccessible markets may be tapped by ships released from transport service, and European demand for American wheat probably will not exceed our normal surplus. There is wheat enough available to have a white loaf at the common table.

But last year the tale was different. Only by the greatest possible saving and sacrifice were we able to keep a steady stream of wheat and flour moving across the sea. We found ourselves at the beginning of the harvest year with an unusually short crop. Even the most optimistic statisticians figured that we had a bare surplus of 20,000,000 bushels. And yet Europe was facing the probability of a bread famine—and in Europe bread is by far the most important article in the diet.

All of this surplus had left the country early in the fall. By the first of the year we had managed to ship a little more than 50,000,000 bushels by practicing the utmost economy at home—by wheatless days, wheatless meals, heavy substitution of other cereals and by sacrifice at almost every meal throughout the country.

In January the late Lord Rhonda, then British Food Controller, cabled that only if we sent an additional 75,000,000 bushels before July 1 could he take the responsibility of assuring his people that they would be fed.

The response of the American people was 85,000,000 bushels safely delivered overseas between January 1 and July 1. Out of a harvest which gave us only 20,000,000 bushels surplus we actually shipped 141,000,000 bushels.

Thus did America fulfill her pledge that the Allied bread rations could be maintained, and already the American people are demonstrating that, with an awakened war conscience, last year's figures will be bettered.

Our exports since the country entered the war have justified a statement made by the Food Administration shortly after its inception, outlining the principles and policies that would govern the solution of this country's food problems. "The whole foundation of democracy," declared the Food Administration, "lies in the individual initiative of its people and their willingness to serve the interests of the nation with complete self-effacement in the time of emergency. Democracy can yield to discipline, and we can solve this food problem for our own people and for the Allies in this way. To have done so will have been a greater service than our immediate objective; for we have demonstrated the righteousness of our faith and our ability to defend ourselves without being Prussianized."

Sending to Europe 141,000,000 bushels of wheat from a surplus of apparently nothing was the greatest exploit of the American food army in the critical year of the war.

GREATEST OPPORTUNITY WOMEN EVER HAD.

It was given to the women of this country to perform the greatest service in the winning of the war vouchsafed to any women in the history of the wars of the world—to feed the warriors and the war sufferers. By the arts of peace, the practice of simple, homely virtues the womanhood of a whole nation served humanity in its profoundest struggle for peace and freedom.

FIRST CALL TO FOOD ARMY.

This co-operation and service I ask of all in full confidence that America will render more for flag and freedom than any ridden people surrender at bay. Pulsion.—Herbert Hoover, August 10, 1917.

A year ago voluntary food control was a daring adventure in democracy, during the year an established proof of democratic efficiency.

THE SCHOOL BOOK COMMISSION.

The Legislature of 1916 passed a law limiting the change of text-books to two subjects. This seems to be little known to those metropolitan newspapers that have been concerning themselves seriously and perhaps overmuch lately about the State Textbook Commission and the adoption to be made this year. It fact it is the first time that we have ever heard of the big dailies concerning themselves much about school books.

The Commission appointed by the Governor, appears to be a good one, and as far as politically appointed commissions go, may render the State good service. In order to serve the best interests of the people, and most economically, the Commission could not do a better and more popular thing than to meet at once and readopt all the text-books now in use, with possibly one or two very minor changes. It is certainly to be hoped that the Governor will be wise enough to keep hands off of the book adoption, and leave the matter largely to the State Superintendent, who should have been made the chairman of the Commission in the passage of the law, and who but for grafting interests, dirty politics, and insidious book lobbyists, would have been made, as should yet be done, the responsible head of the State School Book Commission.

Mr. Henry Watterson's tribute to Col. Theodore Roosevelt, was read here with a great deal of interest. First, no other man could write an article akin to it, as there is but one Henry Watterson. Second, because his admirers in this part of the State were glad to see composition from him again in the Courier-Journal. On any subject, notwithstanding he is carrying the weight of many years, he is today the most brilliant writer in the United States, and is so recognized.

A boom has been started for Col. George T. Smith, of Lexington for Governor now commanding the thirty-second division in Europe. The boom has been started by the soldiers under him, who are writing to their kinsmen in Kentucky and also their friends urging them to take up the cause of Col. Smith. It is further stated that Col. Smith has asked for his discharge, that he may return to Kentucky and prosecute his canvass.

CHERRY INDORSED
BY HIS HOME PEOPLE

Great Assembly Cheer the Noted Educator and Adopt Stirring Resolutions Endorsing His Candidacy for Governor.

A great mass meeting was held at Bowling Green on Saturday, December 28th, to endorse the candidacy of Dr. H. H. Cherry for the Democratic nomination for Governor. It was an enthusiastic meeting, and one which showed that the people of his native county, among whom he has lived and worked all his life, appreciate his qualities of life and leadership, and are back of his candidacy. Mr. Morgan Hughes, a fellow-townsmen of Dr. Cherry, and a noted western Kentucky farmer, reported, as chairman of the Committee on Resolutions, the following resolutions, which were unanimously and enthusiastically adopted:

Dr. H. H. CHERRY, Bowling Green.

"The Democrats of Warren county, hailing from every precinct within her borders, in mass meeting assembled do hereby confidently and enthusiastically commend to the Democracy of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, the candidacy of H. H. Cherry, who seeks his party's nomination as its candidate for Governor, at the primary election to be held on August 2, 1919. Dr. Cherry was born and reared in Warren county, springing from a Christian family of hardy pioneers. Here he has spent his life. Here he has risen by his unaided efforts, from an humble farmer-lad to become the head of a great educational institution, in which the people everywhere feel a justified pride; and from here his influence for good has radiated throughout the entire State. Every forward-looking movement for the credit of the State and the welfare of the people has always had in him an earnest and effective champion. Every moral issue which has risen has always found him on the right side. Every progressive measure which has been proposed, whether for governmental efficiency, educational expansion, agricultural betterment, or purity in politics, has always received his unflinching support. He is an earnest and life-long Democrat, who has hitherto been content to be a worker in the ranks. His excellent ability, tried through years of experience, and tested by many difficulties, is of the highest order. Personally honest, politically incorruptible, trained in the difficult work of intelligent and effective leadership, he is eminently qualified to fill the office of Governor, with credit alike to himself and to the Commonwealth. We, his fellow-county men, earnestly endorse his candidacy; and confidently bespeak for him the generous support of every Democrat everywhere throughout the entire State."

Dr. Cherry has issued a progressive program. In his announcement he states that he submits his desires to the people, and under no circumstances will he be a candidate of any political faction. He stands for perfecting the tax and road laws; for organizing the finances of the State upon a sound, equitable and just basis; for economy and efficiency in all departments of State government; for the elimination of every useless job and all forms of waste; for local, State and National prohibition; for the right of suffrage for the women of the State equally with the men; for safeguarding and promoting the rights of the laboring man; for better rural schools; for better health conditions; for a non-partisan judiciary, and, for the non-partisan management of charitable and penal institutions, free from all political influences. He also endorses reforms along other vital lines. He believes that capital should be encouraged to come within our borders; that labor should be secured and receive fair treatment and just compensation; that education should drive illiteracy from the State, and agriculture, which is the basis of our wealth, should be fostered and raised to the highest degree of efficiency. He declares that Kentucky needs more fields of alfalfa, more agricultural limestone, and other things, and less political brimstone.

If you endorse this character of a man and the principles he advocates, Dr. Cherry would value your support, and if you feel like writing him, he would greatly appreciate hearing from you.

UNITED STATES SELLS 200 MOTOR TRUCKS

Fifteen Hospitals Will Be Sent to Stricken Armenia.

The United States Government, which is aiding in every way the work of the American Committee for Relief in the Near East (formerly the Armenian and Syrian Relief Committee), has just given out the information that it will turn over to the committee for a nominal sum fifteen American Army hospitals in France and two hundred within a short time. Wheat was plentiful in a district not far away, but there were no facilities for transporting it to the starving sufferers.

For this reason the committee has purchased the 200 trucks from the American Government, and plans to buy more from the British Army, which, though impeded by the necessities of military operations, has greatly aided the distress in the Near East.

As a consequence of malnutrition, sickness is rife in many communities throughout the Near East. Diseases which the people could resist if they were adequately nourished have taken root throughout all this territory on account of the wasted bodies of the whole population. Representatives of the committee report that aside from starvation the sanitary conditions are revolting and that children go no-motor trucks, no longer needed since the signing of the armistice.

Could any scene be more repulsive to well fed Americans. These weary travelers, driven miles from their homes, are happy to get a share of a dead animal's flesh.

Each of these hospitals contains 100 beds and complete equipment except for kitchen utensils. The buildings in which these hospitals will be housed in the Near East have been erected. With the hospital equipment the committee will purchase large quantities of medical supplies which have been stored in France to safeguard the health of American soldiers. These supplies will be rushed to the Near East from a French port.

Careful surveys of the situation in the Near East indicate that lack of transportation facilities is the chief cause of famine. There is food enough to keep the inhabitants from starving, but it cannot be distributed to supply 625,000 square miles of country. There are only 80 miles of railroad. Consequently there is plenty of food in some sections of the country where food is grown, but great distress in those which are not self-supporting. In the cities especially there is great need. On one occasion wheat became so scarce in a community in Persia that the price increased 1,200 per cent.

bathed for indefinite periods on account of the scarcity of soap and that the population is ridden with sores.

Every day more moving appeals come from distressed Armenia, Syria, Persia and the Russian Caucasus. Tens of thousands of people are as gaunt and hungry as those gathered around the dead horse in the accompanying picture. Many have been without food for days. An Associated Press dispatch from Salonika of recent date (December 16) reports that of the 2,000,000 Armenians deported by the Turks only 400,000 survived and that not more than one-fourth of the present Armenian population can survive until the next harvest without outside help.

Distressing as seem these reports, it is encouraging to know that even causes of advanced emaciation, such as are shown in this illustration, readily respond to treatment. With food and medical care millions can be made strong and healthy. Thirty million dollars, the sum to be sought in the January 12 to 19 drive, will help save 4,000,000 lives. Considered only as an investment, it should be worth while.

Council of Defense Shows Expense of World Conflict to Allied and Central Powers

Prefixed "What the War Is Costing," the state councils of defense put out the following:

"National debts do not tell all the cost of war, of course. Taxes have been doubled and trebled by every nation engaged in the conflict. Still national debts help to give a comprehensive idea of what Germany brought upon herself and the rest of the world when she undertook the mad project of conquering the world.

"As given out officially by the government, the national debts of the nations engaged are, by the latest obtainable figures, as follows:

Allied Powers—
"Great Britain—$31,069,000,000; increase since war began, $28,211,000,000.
"Australia—$1,212,000,000; increase since war began, $1,119,000,000.
"Canada—$1,172,000,000; increase since war began, $890,000,000.
"New Zealand—$611,000,000; increase since war began, $165,000,000.
"France—$22,227,000,000; increase since war began, $15,629,000,000.
"Italy—$10,328,000,000; increase since war began, $7,536,000,000.
"United States—$11,760,000,000; increase since war began, $10,552,000,000.
"The figures for the United States do not include the subscriptions for the fourth Liberty loan. Those for France show that nation's debt at the beginning of 1918, since which it has been greatly increased.

Central Powers—
"Germany—$28,922,000,000; increase since war began $27,757,000,000.
"Austria—$15,422,000,000; increase since war began, $12,782,000,000.
"Hungary—$6,316,000,000; increase since war began, $4,971,000,000.
"What Bulgaria and Turkey have spent is not known, as the finances of those countries are peculiar to themselves.

"Debts, even when they are national debts, are not cheerful things to consider, but it is just as well to remember these against Germany when she comes asking for peace before she is thoroughly whipped. It is well to remember that Germany caused this pile of debt to be laid on the shoulders of the world, and to keep thinking that it will be worth while for America to spend a few more billions, now, to make it impossible for the Hun ever to do such a thing again."

Consumption of Oranges Is Increased by Juice Stands.

Attributing the large orange consumption this season to the increased demands made on the crop by the thousands of orange juice stands that have sprung up throughout the United States in the last year, the Fruit World says: "The world-wide shortage of sugar, estimated at approximately 2,000,000 tons annually since the war began, has caused the restriction of sugar consumption in the manufacture of many of the popular drinks. This has increased the consumption of oranges this year and has created a greater market activity in spite of the abnormally high prices caused by the crop shortage following the heat wave one year ago last June. And so the orange drink stands have alleviated the demand on the sugar supply but also have increased the demands on a short-cropped orange crop."

War Forces Hun Papers and Magazines Out of Business

Since the beginning of the war 3,582 German newspapers and magazines have discontinued publication either permanently or temporarily. This is officially announced by the German postal authorities, says the Berlin

Tagblatt. In the same period 1,765 new publications were begun. The total number of newspapers and magazines in Germany was estimated at 9,000.

Starvation by Germany challenged all the world; food conservation in America answered the challenge.

Food conservation in America has been the triumph of individual devotion to the national cause.

Pickled Peppers.
For pepper lovers this will be worth while using before the succulent green vegetable is gone from our markets in the North. For one-half peck of peppers scald two quarts of vinegar and a scant cupful of salt. Pour the hot vinegar over the peppers three mornings in succession, using care that the vinegar is not too hot or it softens the peppers. Then seal in glass jars. One quart of peppers will make a pint when pickled.

If a carrot or two is left and will wither before being used, slice thinly and put to dry in the warming oven. A pinch of dry carrot will be a great addition to many soups or sauces and so easy to use in a hurry.

found more wire than ever. The Lieut. ask for 5 volunteers to go over and see what was in the woods. So myself, 2 sergeants and 2 privates went. I was the first to get through. We were in about 16 or 18 feet, when I looked up and saw the flash of a rifle it looked as if it was in my face. One of the sergeants got tangled in the wire and was pretty well torn up. They shot six shoots at us before we could get out first and I shot four shoots with my automatic pistol until he got out and then we did some fast stepping. The next night patrols went out. One got killed, one wounded. The 82nd division relieved us and we were on our way to start another big drive when the armistice was signed. The heavy artillery would pass us on the road we knew what was coming. So stayed over night here in this village, expecting to start early next morning another drive, that awful task, but we are still in the same village looking for the near future when we will get to come home. It is cold here now. The ground is frozen. We are

PROVED SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY
Voluntary Basis of Food Saving
Showed Heart of America
Beat True for Freedom.

To the voluntary service and sacrifice of the American people must be attributed the continued health, strength and morale of the Allied armies and the civil populace.

Upon this spirit of service and sacrifice will depend Europe's fate in the months to come. In the past year we have carried out an export program, the magnitude of which is almost beyond comprehension. But with the new demands that have come, with the liberation of nations freed from German oppression, our exports must be almost doubled. Instead of 11,820,000 tons, we must ship twenty million tons of food to Europe in the coming year—as much as can be pushed through our ports.

If the Allies had not been fed by America, it would have been impossible for them to maintain their defense against Germany.

Meeting this world need on a purely voluntary basis, the American people have conclusively proved that democracy is a success and that in time of need it will rise to its own defense.

If there were no other accomplishment to its credit the very fact that it has shown the strength of democracy has in itself more than justified the existence of the Food Administration in the eyes of the world.

Less than four months after the United States declared war the United States Food Administrator expressed his determination to meet America's food problem on a basis of voluntary action and reiterated his confidence that awakened democracy would prove irresistible.

"Many thinking Americans," said Mr. Hoover, "and the whole world have been watching anxiously the last four months in the fear that democratic America could not organize to meet autocratic Germany. Germany has been confident that it could not be done. Contrary proof is immediately at our door, and our people have already demonstrated their ability to mobilize, organize, endure and prepare voluntarily and efficiently in many directions and upon the mere word of inspiration aside from the remarkable assemblage of our Army and finances."

The history of the Food Administration has clearly shown that the trust of those who put their faith in democracy has not been misplaced.

Population of France.
In 1914 the population of France was 39,500,000, and at the beginning of the war the excess of births over deaths was about 50,000 annually. In 1916 the deaths in the civilian population totaled 700,000, and in the military forces 400,000, a total of 1,100,000.

A most dainty and appetizing combination salad which was the result of necessity, will now be a cherished one. Cut fresh, ripe tomatoes into fifths, not cutting way through, so they stand like the petals of a flower. Heap over these thin strips of ripe, fresh pears, serve with French dressing with a dash of onion juice and tabasco. The combination is especially appetizing.

FARMERS SAVE SITUATION.
Government Justified in Stimulation of Pork Production—Sevenfold
Increase Over Pre-
War Exports.

The fact that the people of the United States were able to reduce by more than one-half million tons their July, August, September and October consumption of sugar proves conclusively that their war conscience was thoroughly awakened and that the country as a whole stood ready to follow the injunctions of the Government.

Our normal consumption of sugar in the four-month period beginning with July has been 400,000 tons per month, a total of 1,600,000 for the quarter year.

In July, when our sugar stringency began to reach its height, consumption was reduced to 200,000 tons. In August only 325,000 tons went into distribution and in September only 270,000 tons. In October the distribution fell to 230,000 tons.

If the general public had failed to observe the injunctions of the Food Administration this country would have been in the throes of a sugar famine before the end of August. Our visible supplies were so low as to bring great anxiety to those familiar with the sugar situation. They feared that it would be absolutely impossible to reduce consumption to a point where sugar would no longer be a mere luxury in the American diet.

Few accomplishments of the Food Administration will stand forth so predominantly as this reduced consumption of sugar. By it we have been able to bridge over the period of stringency until the new beet and Louisiana cane sugar crops were in sight.

Now the nation is in a position so that if we choose we may return to our normal home use of sugar, and Europe, with the release of ships to go far afield, can maintain its recent restricted rations. If, however, those nations are to increase their use of sugar very considerably it must be by our continued sharing with them through limiting our own consumption.

Hand Organs Here Again; Stirring War Tunes Are Favorites With Players

"I note with mingled feeling the return of the hand organ in our streets," said an observer in the New York Times, "and I think that the coming back of this 'empty-nompy' music disturber of serenity can also be laid to the war. At any rate, it's only war songs and ballads they grind out."

About six years ago the streets used to be full of these hand organs. Sometimes the organists would play the instruments' full capacity of siren-like "Marseillaise" always being one of them—and then again, if called to be thrown, you'd get, perhaps, only a bit of one tune. I always thought the owners of the hand organs had to keep tabs on houses where they really got something, and pass the word to the fraternity, because I've known six organs to begin "empty-nompy" before the same house in an afternoon.

The piano bought on the installment plan, however, which put music into everyone's reach, and the arrival of the inexpensive form of the phonograph, proved too much for the hand organists, and for the last five years they have been in retirement. Where they went and what they did in their retirement is not so interesting to me as to where they stored their hand organs. I fancy, though, that many Mulberry street or Canine street cellars could have disclosed much on the subject.

"Possibly the war also has had something to do with the changed dress of the women proprietors. I remember that they were remarkable for gaily colored, rainbow scarfs and vivid handkerchiefs. The returning ones, however, are more sober in raiment, most of them running to severe black. There is nothing subdued in the music, though, for the hand organs are all for the stirring tunes of the army. Incidentally, I've noticed that whenever the war music is started in front of a house where a service flag flies, the street musicians are seldom unregarded."

AMERICAN SPIRIT RELIED ON TO WIN.

In the light of succeeding events it is interesting to recall the confidence with which the United States Food Administrator viewed the gloomy outlook in July of 1917, when this country had been in the war for less than four months and the Germans were steadily sending the western front nearer and nearer to Paris.

"Even though the situation in Europe may be gloomy today," he declared in a public statement, "no American who has knowledge of the results already obtained in every direction need have one atom of fear that democracy will not defend itself in these United States."

LOYALTY IN LITTLE THINGS LAST PROOF OF PATRIOTISM

Americans without murmuring cut their sugar allowance from four pounds a month to three and then as long as need be to two pounds for loyalty's sake.

Food Will Win the World.

America earned the gratitude of allied nations during war by sharing food. America under peace may win the world's good will by saving to share.

Our food Gospel!

America's Pledge of Food
Gave Heart to the Allies
In Their Darkest Hour

Whatever is necessary America will send. That was America's pledge to the interallied food council. And because the American food army had hitherto made good they took heart and went forward.

Farm enterprise and much soft corn increased pork supplies, food conservation increased exports—total shipments doubled.

America's food pledge
20 million tons

FAITH JUSTIFIED BY EVENTS.

I do not believe that drastic force need be applied to maintain economic distribution and sane use of supplies by the great majority of American people, and I have learned a deep and abiding faith in the intelligence of the average American business man, whose aid we anticipate and depend on to remedy the evils developed by the war.—Herbert Hoover, August 10, 1917.

DEMOCRACY VS. AUTOCRACY.

"There is no royal road to food conservation. We can only accomplish this by the voluntary action of our whole people, each element in proportion to its needs. It is a matter of equality of burden."

The truth of this statement, made by the United States Food Administrator soon after we entered the war, has been borne out by the history of our exports. Autocratic food control in the lands of our enemies has broken down, while democratic food sharing has maintained the health and strength of this country and of the Allies.

Some New Years Thoughts.

By

(Jesse L. Murrell.)

Nineteen hundred and nineteen gone;
Nineteen hundred and nineteen's on;
The old year we shall see no more,
Our wrongs in same we do deplore.
We cannot tell what this year'll bring,
But let us trust and gladly sing,
That all that comes will help us on
Let it be sunshine, cloud or storm.
We put our hand in God's good hand,
And for the right we mean to stand;
And trusting all to Thee each day,
We can make progress on life's way.
Forbid that we should grieve Thy heart
Or in complaining have a part;
But help us meet things as they come,
That we may have Thy own "well done."

If sickness comes help us to bear
Its pains, its sorrows as our share;
If health is ours help us be glad,
And weep with those whose hearts are sad.
In righteous paths may we be found,
And in good works may we abound,
Still pressing on to better things,
Thy gracious praises help us sing.
O may we stretch our every nerve,
And do our best our God to serve,
Rescuing lost and ruined souls,
Helping the weak to reach the goal.
O fill us Lord with light divine,
And cause us to the right incline,
Abhorring everything that's wrong,
Abstaining from it all day long.
Should death unloose the silver cord,
Be near to help us blessed Lord;
And take us to Thyself on high,
Where pleasure's never known to die.

Amid the glories of that clime
We shall know the joys that are sublime,
Reigning with Thee upon Thy throne
We shall have wealth that cant be known.

Come one and all lets go to rest,
Where we shall be forever blest;
And see our Savior face to face,
And shout the wonders of His grace.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF

JOHN D. CARROLL

Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Governor.

Because of that most excellent law which limits a candidate for Governor to $10,000, or about $34 to the county, to promote his candidacy, it has been necessary to print my complete announcement in pamphlet form, and it will be distributed throughout the State. It contains a full statement of my views on public questions, and I would like to see a copy in the hands of every Democratic voter. In this brief space, I have attempted to summarize the more important subjects touched on in that pamphlet, which will be sent to anyone requesting it.

Liquor Question.

I will vote for and support the Amendment to the Constitution to prohibit the manufacture, sale and transportation of spirituous, vinous, malt and other intoxicating liquors. If elected, I will honestly and earnestly use all legitimate efforts to make effective by legislation the letter as well as the spirit of this amendment.

JOHN D. CARROLL, New Castle.

Woman Suffrage.

Should the proposed Amendment to the Constitution be adopted by Congress, I will favor ratification by the Kentucky Legislature. If this amendment does not pass Congress, I favor submitting an amendment to the Constitution of Kentucky conferring suffrage upon women, and will vote for it.

Education.

I have always been, and am now, devotedly attached to the Common School System. I am heartily in favor of making ample provision to secure for every child in the State an opportunity to obtain at least a good common school education. Furthermore, every effort ought to be directed to the enforcement of the compulsory school law so that every child within school years may be required to attend some school.

Public Roads.

I favor thorough co-ordination between State and county effort in road work so that good results may be obtained from the expenditure of State funds.

Agriculture.

As the chief wealth of our State is found in its agriculture, I favor putting the State Agricultural Department on such a financial basis as will enable it to render to the farmers of the State the most efficient and practical service.

New Tax Law.

The principle of classification of property and imposition of a different rate of taxation should not, in my judgment, be changed until a fair trial has demonstrated its injustice. Such inequalities as may be in the present law should be cured by proper legislation.

State Debt.

The State debt should not be permitted to grow larger, and I would veto all appropriations in excess of revenue and try to arrange the affairs of the State so the present indebtedness may be retired without increasing taxes.

Labor.
Being a friend of labor and sympathizing with every legitimate effort to better living conditions, I favor such legislation as will promote the comfort and prosperity of the wage earner.

Law and Order.
Confident that the supremacy of law and preservation of order are indispensable to our peace and happiness, I am and always have been a strong advocate of speedy and vigorous enforcement of law. I abhor mob law and am gratified that there will be submitted to the voters at the November election an amendment to the Constitution providing for the removal of any Peace Officer for neglect of duty. I will vote for this amendment and if elected will urge the Legislature to enact suitable laws for its enforcement.

Pardons.
I think the power to pardon should be sparingly exercised and pardon granted only when the ends of justice demand it.

Nonpartisan Judiciary.
The integrity and freedom from partisan bias of the judiciary of the State is a matter for congratulation of every citizen. I believe, however, that the judiciary should be nonpartisan to the end there may not even be a suspicion that their judgment was warped by partisan feeling.

Nonpartisan Institutions.
Our public institutions should be honestly and absolutely divorced from partisan politics. Faithful and competent men should not be removed for partisan purposes or political reasons.

Fair Elections—Corrupt Practice Act.
Our Corrupt Practice Act is a long and fine step toward preventing bribery because it limits the sum that a candidate may spend. The provisions of this act I intend to observe strictly, according to its letter as well as its spirit, although so doing will necessarily deprive me of the benefit of much legitimate letter writing and helpful advertising.

Independent Vote.
If the Democratic party desires to win it must nominate candidates who can secure the independent vote. The Democrats should nominate that man, whether he be myself or another, who can poll the largest vote in the November election.

Business Administration.
Believing that the State may be likened to a big business corporation, I shall favor its business being conducted as nearly as possible in the same economical and efficient manner as the affairs of a large and well-managed business concern. I will devote all my time and attention to looking after State business, having no other ambition than that of being known as a business Governor, and during the term shall not be a candidate.

Where Candidate Lives.
The section of the State that candidates come from is not material. Stanley, from Western Kentucky, received in the State 4,135 more votes than Black, from Eastern Kentucky, and in two of the thirty-one mountain counties the vote was a tie between them. In twenty-two of the other twenty-nine Stanley got a majority over Black.

Soldiers' Monument.
To perpetuate the heroic deeds of our soldiers who gave their lives for the honor and safety of their State and Nation and are now sleeping in foreign lands, I advocate the erection of a noble monument that will be enduring evidence of the grateful remembrance we who are living hold the names and memory of those who have died.

Conclusion.
In this brief statement, I have set forth the principles I believe in and shall advocate, and in the primary election I respectfully ask the support of those Democrats who indorse my position and who believe, if nominated and elected, I will honestly endeavor to put them into effective form.
